WHAT'S YOUR URL?

E. Scott Medling, CHP
AAHP Web Master

Our Academy moves into Cyberspace!

As part of its continuing effort to enhance communications to and between members, the AAHP has published a page on the Internet's World Wide Web. We hope the page will help candidates learn how to get certified, help CHPs renew their certification, and provide information of interest to the Academy membership. The page can be viewed on the Internet by most browser software that is equivalent to Netscape Version 2 or later. The URL (Uniform Resource Locator, i.e., Web talk meaning "address") is

<http://phantom.ehs.uiuc.edu/~aahp/>

At present, the page includes the following material:

AAHP

- ▶ The Preamble and Bylaws of the AAHP;
- ▶ Lists of members: plenary, emeritus, and associate;
- ▶ Roster of the Executive Committee and other AAHP committees;
- ▶ Exam results, as available.

ABHP

- ▶ Prospectus;
- ▶ Calculator Policy and list of permitted calculators;
- ▶ Roster of the Board and Panels of Examiners;
- ▶ Recent Part II Exams.*

Continuing Education (CE)

- ▶ CE Policy;
- ▶ List of approved CE courses (updated at approximately monthly intervals).

CHP News & "CHP Corner"

- ▶ Recent issues, as published and/or co-distributed in the HPS Newsletter.

*Exams and other material on the AAHP Web page may be copyrighted by the AAHP and, as such, may be copied only for personal, non-commercial use.

Distance is merely a pseudo-dimension in Cyberspace. I maintain the page from southern California (San Onofre Nuclear Generating Station) on a machine at the University of Illinois that sits on Melissa Woo's desk in the Environmental Health & Safety Department.

The page is intended to serve the needs of Academy members and candidates. Please feel free to send me comments and/or suggestions for improvement. Browsers can send e-mail to me or the AAHP Secretariat by clicking on the "mailbox" icons at the bottom of the first page.
